Directors Prepare for Exhibition.

A meeting of the directors of the Didsbury Agricultural Society was held on Friday evening last, for the purpose of discussing and making preliminary arrangements in connection with the fair this year, which will be held on August 4 and 5. A good attendance was recorded, there being thirteen directors present out of eighteen on the Board. The officers this year comprise Dan Dipple, president; A. B. Frash, first vice-president; D. Irwin, 2nd vice-president; A. A. Revell, secretary; J. V. Berscht, manager. All present manifested a keen interest in the proceedings and are thoroughly in accord one with another in their intention to try and make the exhibition this year one of the best in the history of the Society. In this effort the directors hope they will have the cordial co-operation and support of not only the residents of the town, but also of those living in the country.

ROYAL TAKES STAFF OF UNION BANK.

In connection with the announcement recently made of the merger of the Union Bank and the Royal, the manager of the local branch of the Union has received a communication advising him that the entire staff of the bank he represents will be "taken over in equal fellowship with the Royal." At this period in the history of the Union Bank it may not be without some interest to point out that it stands sixth among the banks in Canada in relation to the extent of its assets, which at present are over one hundred and sixteen millions. When the merger is completed the combined assets of the Royal and Union will be $720,844,345.00.

The various branches of the Royal will number over 900, or about a quarter of the total number in Canada.

The Union Bank, it may be added, has been established here in Didsbury since 1902.

PRESENTATION.

At a meeting of the Business Girls' Club, held on Tuesday evening of last week, at the residence of Mrs. W. A. Austin, Miss Irene Rodaway was the recipient of a handsome set of silver spoons on the occasion of her coming wedding. The presentation was made by the president, Mrs. Austin, who in a tactful and pleasing address, alluded to the very pleasant times the members of the club had spent together, and wishing Miss Rodaway, on behalf of the members every happiness and prosperity. Afterwards, a most enjoyable time was spent with cards and music. Miss Rodaway, as most of our readers are aware, that been for a number of years assisting in the local post-office, where by her obliging manner, and winning smile, she has made a host of friends.

Reception for Former Editor.

In the annals of Didsbury's record of social events the reception given to H. E. Osmond, for over twenty years proprietor and editor of the "Pioneer," on Thursday night inst, will long be remembered by those present as one of the outstanding events in the town's history. Considerably more than one hundred of Didsbury's citizens and residents of the surrounding country attended a reception given in Mr. Osmond's honor, who by reason of his long tenure here not less than by his active public life had made himself acquainted with practically everyone in the district.

In addition to his strenuous newspaper life Mr. Osmond held the offices, for a number of years, of both Councillor and Mayor, and during the war carried on and executed a lot of useful work in connection with the Patriotic Fund. He also took a prominent part in the local Masonic Lodge, of which he was a Pastmaster, and latterly, appointed Historian, in recognition of his useful work in arranging and compiling a history of Masonic activities carried on in Didsbury. He, too, was an elder of the Presbyterian Church, in which he took a great interest.

During the evening Mayor H. W. Chambers, in a eulogistic address, presented the guest of the evening with a handsome travelling bag, as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the citizens.

The first portion of the evening was spent very pleasantly with a whist drive, followed by community singing and dancing, in which nearly everyone participated with evident enjoyment.

Mr. Osmond, with his two daughters, left on Monday to visit friends at Moose Jaw, thence leaving for Portland, Ore., where it is understood he will in future reside.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

Blood would ha' slipped out o' Port Royal again that same night. But that hound Bishop had passed the word, and the fort kept a sharp lookout. In the end, though it took a fortnight, Blood bubbled him. He sent me and most o' the men off in a frigate that I bought for the voyage. His game—as he'd secretly told me—was to follow and give chase. Whether that's the game he played or not I can't tell ye; but here he is afore me as I'd expected he would be."

Having delivered himself of his dejection of fact and falsehood, and thereby added one more to the exploits of Peter Blood, he enquired where the Captain might be found. Being informed that he kept his ship, Wolverstone stepped into a boat and went aboard, to report himself, as he put it.

In the great cabin of the Arabella he found Peter Blood alone and very far gone in drink—condition in which no man ever before remembered to have seen him. As Wolverstone came in, the Captain raised bloodshot eyes to consider him. A moment they sharpened in their gaze as he brought his visitor into focus. Then he laughed, a loose, idiotic laugh, that yet somehow was half a sneer.

"My God, Peter, what's this?"

"Rum," said Peter. "Rum, from Jamaica."

"I'm asking you what 'alls you?" he bawled.

"Rum," said Captain Blood, again, and smiled. "Jus' rum. I answer all your questions. Why donjerr an' answer mine? Watcher gonerdo wi' me?"

"I've done it," said Wolverstone. "Thank God, ye had the sense to hold your tongue till I came. Are ye sober enough to understand me?"

"Drunk or sober, allus 'derstand you."

"Then listen." And out came the tale that Wolverstone had told. The Captain sagaded himself to grasp it.

"It'll do as well asertruth," said he, when Wolverstone had finished.

"Ye're—maudlin," Wolverstone growled. "We'll talk again tomorrow."

They did; but to little purpose, either that day or on any other day thereafter while the rains—which set in that night—endured. Soon the shrewd Wolverstone discovered that rum was not what ailed Blood. There was a canker eating at his heart, and the Old Wolf knew enough to make a shrewd guess of its nature. He cursed all things that dagged petticoats, and, knowing his world, waited for the sickness to pass.

But it did not pass. When Blood was not dicing or drinking in the taverns of Tortuga, keeping company that in his saner days he had loathed, he was shut up in his cabin aboard the Arabella, alone and uncommunicative. His friends at Government House, bewildered at this change in him, sought to reclaim him. Mademoiselle d'Ogeron, particularly distressed, sent him almost daily invitations, to few of which he responded.

Sometimes Blood asked himself why he had come back to Tortuga at all. He was degenerating visibly, under the eyes of all. He allowed a black beard to grow on cheeks that had ever been so carefully shaved; and the long thick black hair, once so sedulously curled, hung now in a lank, untidy mane. Wolverstone, the only one who held the clue to this degeneration, ventured once to beard him frankly about it.

"Lord Peter! Is there never to be no end to this?" the giant growled.

"Lord, Peter! Is there never to be no end to this?" the giant had growled. "Will you spend your days mopping and swilling 'cause a white-faced man in Port Royal 'll have none o' ye? 'Sblood and 'ounds! If ye want the wench, why the plague does not ye go and fetch her?"

"If there's no other expedition 'll tempt you, why not Port Royal? There's enough plunder in the town to tempt the lads, and there's the wench for you. Shall I sound them on it?"

Blood was on his feet, his eyes blazing, his livid face distorted. "Ye'll leave my cabin this minute, so ye will, or, by heaven, it's your corpse'll be carried out of it. Ye mangy hound, d' ye dare come to me with such proposals?"

But, at last, as his buccaneers were growing desperate, something happened, brought about by the captain's friend, M. d'Ogeron. One sunny morning the governor of Tortuga came aboard the Arabella, accompanied by a chubby little gentleman, amiable of countenance, amiable and self-sufficient of manner.

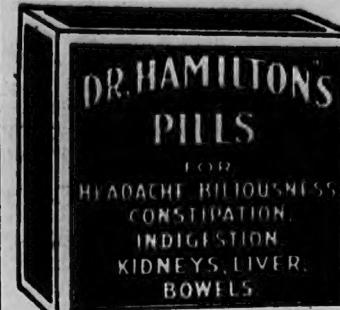

"My captain," M. d'Ogeron delivered himself, "I bring you M. de Cussy, the Governor of French Hispaniola, who desires a word with you."

"You have a good force here under your command, my captain," said M. de Cussy. "Some eight hundred men. I understand they grow restive."

"I am speaking officially, my captain. There is war between France and Spain in Europe. It is the intention of France that this war shall be carried into the New World. A fleet is coming out from Brest under the command of M. le Baron de Rivarol for that purpose. I have letters from him desiring me to equip a supplementary squadron and raise a body of not less than a thousand men to reinforce him on his arrival. What I have come to propose to you, my captain, at the suggestion of our good friend, M. d'Ogeron, is, in brief, that you enroll your ships and your force under M. de Rivarol's flag."

"You are offering to take us into the French service?" he asked. "On what terms, Monsieur?"

"With the rank of Capitaine de Vaisseau for yourself and suitable ranks for the officers serving under you. You will enjoy the pay of that rank, and you will be entitled together with your men, to one-tenth share in all prizes taken."

"I will consult my officers," said Blood. They came and the matter was laid before them by M. de Cussy himself. Yerville, the young French filibuster, had the honor to point out to M. de Cussy that the share offered was too small. For one-fifth of the prizes, the officers would answer for their men; not for less. This M. de Cussy finally conceded, and the articles were drawn up and signed that very day. The buccaneers were to be at Petit Goave by the end of January, when M. de Rivarol had announced that he might be expected.

CHAPTER XXIII.

M. de Rivarol

Captain Blood was in a disgruntled mood when he sailed from Tortuga, and still in that mood when he came to his moorings in the bay of Petit Goave. In that same mood he greeted M. le Baron de Rivarol when this nobleman with his fleet of five men-of-war at last dropped anchor alongside the buccaneer ships.

Summoned to wait on him, Captain Blood repaired to the Castle of Petit Goave, where the interview was to take place. The baron, a tall, hawk-faced man of forty, very cold and distant of manner, measured Captain Blood with an eye of obvious disapproval. Of Hagthorpe, Yerville and Wolverstone, who stood ranged behind their captain, he took no heed whatever. M. de Cussy offered Captain Blood a chair.

"A moment, M. de Cussy. I do not think M. le Baron has observed that I am not alone. Let me present to you, sir, my companions: Captain Hagthorpe of the Elizabeth, Captain Wolverstone of the Atropos and Captain Yerville of the Lachesis."

The baron stared hard and haughtily at Captain Blood. His manner implied plainly that he despised them, and that he desired them at once to understand it. It had a curious effect upon Captain Blood. It awoke the devil in him, and it awoke, at the same time, his self-respect, which of late had been slumbering. A sudden shame of his disordered, ill-kempt appearance made him perhaps the more defiant. He waved his captains to the chairs that stood about.

"Draw up to the table, lads. We are keeping the baron waiting."

They obeyed him, Wolverstone with a grin that was full of understanding. Haughtier grew the stare of M. de Rivarol. He did the only thing remaining to mark a distinction between himself and them. He put on his hat.

"Ye're very wise now," said Blood amiably. "I feel the draught myself."

And he covered himself with his plumed easter. "Shall we come to business?"

New York's Mystery Chinese

Ancient Oriental Has Not Left Shop For Thirty Years

There is an old Chinese in Pell Street, New York, who sits in his little shop window from noon until Chinatown's closing time. He seems carved—an expressionless Buddha with unwinking eyes. He is said to be past 90.

In all the thirty years he has been down there he has never been known to leave his shop. He knows nothing of the New York about him. His world is encompassed in what he sees while perched upon his stool. He has a white wife who is seen now and then.

He takes no interest in disposing of the wares on his shelf, dried shark's fins, water lily flour, nuts, punk sticks and packages of tea. The story goes that he is a human devil chaser and that superstitious Chinese pay him fees to keep evil spirits away from them.

A writer says: I visited his shop while in the quarter to talk to him. But he would not talk, and was annoyed, and in his piping voice said: "You no buy, go away! No talker!" I went over to see Hong Lee, the printer, who often tells of Chinatown characters. But he refused to discuss this ancient.

At the mention of his name Chinatown closes up.

Old Mariner Plans Lonely Sea Voyage

Veteran of Royal Navy Will Attempt Perilous Journey

Commander Eustace B. Maude, 77 years old and long retired from the royal navy, is going to sea again, this time in a 25-foot dory-type sloop, in which he plans to sail from Vancouver to Victoria to England by way of the Panama Canal.

"I expect to enjoy myself very much," said the veteran mariner. "It will be a long voyage, but it should be pleasant. I have provisions for 100 days and a complete edition of Shakespeare's works, so I will get along very well."

Despite his age and the disaster that has overcome many of those who in the past have undertaken similar feats, Commander Maude regards his plans in a matter-of-fact way and seems to think them not at all extraordinary. He will land only once during the long voyage, at Panama, and during practically the rest of the journey he will be out of sight of land. He intends to make his course with the use of his nautical instruments. He has dug them out of his sea chest and burnished them anew. He has a good sea anchor and will use it when he wants a spell below in bad weather. His vessel is a proven sea-boat, staunch, well-found and equipped with a five horsepower gas engine, although the commander hopes to cover the entire journey by sail. Besides provisions, he is taking 50 gallons of fresh water and 50 gallons of gasoline.

Our Thoughtless Waste

Article in C.N.R. Magazine Could Be Applied to Any Business

The Canadian National Railways Magazine, in an effort to assist the management of the road in its efforts to effect economies, with a view to impressing the users of paper clips gives the appended bit of satire:

"One hundred thousand paper clips are used for: Lingerie clasps, 7,160; bobbed hair holders, 10,801; pipe cleaners, 3,143; emergency garter clasps, 802; ear removers, 5,634; lamp shade holders, 192; shirt sleeve adjusters, 4,183; Ford repair parts, 5,308; tooth picks, 9,021; bachelor buttons, 7,200; cuff links, 5,302; poker chips, 19,413; olive stabbings, 426; Eversharp pencil repair kit, 7,324; toys to use while telephoning, 14,163; holding papers together, 28. Total 100,000. This apt illustration of thoughtless waste is applicable to 1,000 other inexpensive articles besides paper clips, and to almost every business. Little economies effect big savings.—Brantford Expositor."

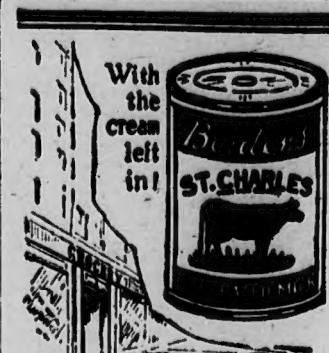

The Short Skirt

President Coolidge's recent declaration that the short skirt hurts the textile industry led a lady to ask him, at a Washington reception, if he thought the short skirt immodest.

"No I wouldn't say that," he answered.

"What would you say, then, Mr. President?" the lady persisted.

"I'd say," he replied, "that this skirt is all right, as far as it goes."

From present indications 1925 will be the biggest year that Manitoba has ever experienced in regard to tourists and convention parties. THE ONE SURE WAY TO GOOD HEALTH

Is Keeping the Blood Pure by Using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Impure, weak blood is the cause of most of the troubles that afflict people. This is the cause of the wretched feeling of languor and faintness, pains in the back and side, headaches and breathlessness, that afflict women and make her daily life torture. To get new health and strength the blood must be enriched. What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do in cases of this kind is told by Mrs. Augusta Emery, Woolford Station, Alta., who says: "Living on the prairie, and knowing that there are thousands of women like myself miles away from a doctor, I want to tell them what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. After my first baby was born I seemed to have little energy. I felt weary and run-down and unable to do even the ordinary household duties. I felt I needed a tonic and as I had long seen Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised I decided to try them. I got a supply and carefully followed the directions and before very long the result was wonderful. Day by day I regained my former strength and energy. The pills seemed to give me a keen appetite and I gained in weight and soon was able not only to do my work about the house, but to help with many chores on the farm. For this reason I would advise women, particularly those on the prairie or the farm, to keep a supply of these pills always on hand. One trial will convince you of their worth. I have recommended them to many of my friends and never have they failed to produce good results."

You can get these pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Some time ago I was suffering with my kidneys and weakness of the bladder. I read in your Almanac that Dodd's Kidney Pills were good for this trouble and decided to try them.

"I had not a great deal of confidence in pills because I had tried so many other kinds without good results. To my surprise after I had taken the first box, I began to feel better. I continued taking them and am now completely relieved of my trouble. I advise all those who suffer with their kidneys to use them. It gives me pleasure to tell all my friends to use them."

British Firms Get Contract

Combined Resources to Compete With German Syndicate's Figures

An important contract involving £100,000 has been captured from Germany by two British metal firms. The contract is for the supply of oil well casting to the Anglo-Persian Oil Co. A German syndicate quoted figures 30 per cent. below the British companies tendering separately, whereupon the Anglo-Persian Oil Co. conferred with the British firms, as a result of which the latter agreed to combine their resources. They were then able to compete with the figures of the German syndicate, and were awarded the contract.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JUNE 14

THE CHURCH IN ANTIOCH

Golden Text: The disciples were called Christians first in Antioch. Acts 11:26.

Lesson: Acts 11:19-30.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 12.

The Text Explained and Illumined

Good Out of Evil, verses 19-21. Luke now looks backward in his narrative. Recalling the trouble that arose after the stoning of Stephen, he tells us that it resulted in his disciples' being scattered abroad. "The persecution turns out to be a missionary society unconsciously organized by the foes of the new faith" (Dr. Lynn H. Hough). The persecuted disciples fled to Phenicia and the island of Cyprus and Antioch in Syria, and everywhere they preached to the Jews and won new converts. "The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the Church."

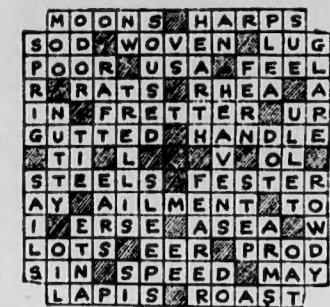

Some of the disciples who went to Antioch were Greek-speaking Jews, natives of Cyprus and Cyrene, whose residence among Gentiles had made them more liberal than were the Hebrew-speaking Jews of Palestine. These humble and unwearied disciples took a great forward step in the history of the Church—they preached to the Greeks at Antioch also, telling them about the Lord Jesus.

The Handbooks Again

The Dominion Government will make another attempt to deal with the handbook nuisance. The measure will probably encounter the usual opposition, not only from interested persons, but from those who object to this kind of legislation as interfering with the pleasures of the people. Unless losing money to profiteers of the worst kind is regarded as a pleasure, the latter objection has no weight.

U.S. Criminal Law

Says That Need Exists For a Radical Change

Elihu Root says that a need exists for an immediate and radical change in American criminal jurisprudence. Chief Justice Taft has been quoted as saying that the administration of the criminal law was a national disgrace. A committee of the American Bar Association has said much the same thing. Let's see. Friendship.

Looking around the hall on Thursday night last at the reception given in Mr. Osmond's favor, one was very much impressed with the number of friends who had assembled there obviously from a feeling of respect and esteem for one who had for so many years participated in their local life. Taking an active and prominent part and striving to do one's duty in connection with his citizenship is not without its current toil, and oftentimes means a sacrifice of other duties which the observant critic too frequently fails to realize. A newspaper life is in itself a strenuous one, and when one adds to this the multifarious duties that are necessarily connected with a public position, one begins to gain some slight conception of the wear and tear of the physical being which inevitably results. But even so, there are compensations, and one feels this especially upon such an occasion as that of last Thursday when the "Pioneer's" former editor was the recipient of such a spontaneous and wholehearted mark of respect on the part of his friends.

FRIENDS

(By Edgar A. Guest)

Good friends are few,
Not many if you lived a hundred years
You would discover, who,
Through all life's care and hurt and grief and tears
Would stay by you.

Acquaintances grow thick,
They line the level pathways and the fair,
But they to change are quick
When storms come up and dangers bring despair,
But one or two will stick.

Gold can be multiplied,
Treasures and lands increased, but
friends
Love only can provide
And but a few, love ever gives or sends,
Loyal, however tried.

Rev. C. T. Homuth leaves to-day (Thursday) for Mayton, where he will hold a series of evangelistic meetings in a large tent to be erected there.

A. E. Smith, local contractor, has just completed remodelling a house on the old H. Walsh farm, eleven miles east, for the Soldiers' Settlement Board, and is now constructing a barn on the same place. The farm, it is understood, has been reserved for people from England under the government's colonization scheme.

J. Meredith, of West Chicago, a heavy land owner in this district, has arrived on a short visit and while here will build a house on land now rented by R. MacFarland.

A meeting of the Didsbury Library Board was held on Saturday night, May 30, to consider the resignation of Miss Kathleen Osmond, who, as it was stated at the meeting, had served the Board very faithfully and been most energetic in her duties. Miss Aleda Huguet was appointed in Miss Osmond's place. The appointment was also made of W. A. Austin as secretary in place of E. E. Freeman who had left the town. The Board has now some cash on hand and some new books will be purchased.

The Bank of Montreal is having fixtures placed in position this week, including counter, teller's cage, etc., also a large safe, and everything is expected to be in shape to-day to accommodate the public. The new manager, Jas. Clark, who has been filling a similar position at Chipman, Alta., is expected to arrive next week, the house recently vacated by H. E. Osmond having been taken over for his occupation.

Best Cutworm Preventive

At the request of some of its readers, the "Pioneer" has written to the Department relative to the cutworm menace and secured information and advice which may be of service to many locally.

The pale western cutworm, which is well known to many farmers in the southern portion of the province, has made its appearance in destructive numbers over a somewhat extended area in the central portion of the province, and the provincial department of agriculture is taking steps to cope with the situation by distributing literature to the farmers which give the various methods used to reduce the losses from the pests.

From a somewhat rapid investigation of the infested regions, it would appear that the worst affected region is along the Red Deer river in the Hand Hills district, while the south is reported to be almost free from the pest.

The following report has been issued by the department:

The eggs from which the cutworms hatch are laid by a moth in soil that has a dusty surface in August and the first half of September. They are never laid on weeds, neither are they laid in soil that has a slight crust on the surface at that time of the year. This is a very important thing to remember.

In the spring these eggs hatch into cutworms that feed entirely underground. They never come above ground by day unless the soil is very hard or is wet to the surface. When they are 14 inches long they are full grown, and they burrow more deeply into the ground and there turn into the moths that will again lay eggs in the following fall.

Pale western cutworms will feed on all classes of field crops. Flax is not immune, and suffers, if anything, more than grain crops.

Poison Is Useless

Since these cutworms move underground, very few of them can be killed with poisoned bait that is scattered on the surface. It does not pay to use poisoned bait for this cutworm.

When part only of a field is infested, plow a deep furrow around the infested area. This will check further spread, though it may not entirely prevent it.

Coal oil, turpentine, lime, etc., applied to the seed will not prevent the cutworms from feeding on the growing plants.

Under normal conditions pale western cutworms will not leave a field that has been destroyed by them. Rarely they may do so after a heavy rain.

If your crop has been destroyed, and you wish to re-seed, examine the field carefully. In nearly every case you will find that the worms are still there, and it is absolutely useless to re-seed till they are full grown.

If the average size of the worm is 14 inches, you can re-seed with wheat or flax in about ten days' time, or with oats in eight. When they are 14 inches long, it is safe to re-seed in about five and three days respectively.

Earlier re-seeding in a field that is still infested with the cutworms that have destroyed the crop, is too risky for it ever to be attempted.

Rain does not kill cutworms. It greatly reduces their feeding for as long as the soil is wet. As it dries out they will feed more ravenously than ever, and nearly mature cutworms will ruin the second seeding more quickly than they ruined the first when they were less than an inch long.

Caused by Drought

The outbreak in this area is due entirely to lack of rainfall during May and June in 1923 and 1924. Though rain does not kill cutworms, it has a marked effect on the activity of their enemies. With the return of seasons in which the rainfall is more abundant in the spring, the damage will entirely cease, but the cutworms are now so numerous that we cannot hope to be quite free from them next year.

As we stated earlier, the moths fly in August and the first half of September, and they lay their eggs only in fields that have a layer of loose or dusty earth on the surface.

Plow or cultivate early and get your land clean by July 1. Then keep off the field till the middle of September.

Municipal Co-operative Hail Insurance.

Here are facts that will pay the farmer—and pay him well—to consider.

That in the last six years the farmers' own co-operative plan, The Municipal Hail Insurance, carried 57 per cent of the total hail insurance written in Alberta.

That out of every dollar hail insurance tax imposed under the Municipal Hail Insurance plan, 85 cents was returned to the farmer in payment of losses, 8-13 cents went to the reserve fund and 6-8 cents paid all costs of administration.

Support your own co-operative plan.

Canada will be well represented at the New Zealand and South Seas International Exhibition to be held at Dunedin between November, 1925 and April, 1926. Both the Dominion Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway have announced their intention to send well-appointed exhibits to the Exposition. It is probable that the provincial governments and many Canadian manufacturers will follow suit.

Give Thornton A Chance

Canada's Parliament has been in session at Ottawa for many months but the "man in the street" would be in a real quandary if he was asked to state just what has been accomplished in a concrete way and of a constructive character for the upbuilding of the Dominion through the development of its resources and the promotion of its basic industries leading to national prosperity.

There has been oceans of talk. Weary weeks were spent threshing over old straw in the debate on the Speech from the Throne, and still more weary weeks in unproductive talk during the debate on the Budget. Millions of dollars have been voted for various services. But, after all, what has really been accomplished?

Apart from these things, much time has been devoted to discussion of the Canadian National Railway and its management. Admittedly this is a subject deserving of close attention and it is right and proper that Parliament should do everything in its power to help place the system on a sound footing and co-operate with the Government and railway management in strengthening its position and hastening the day when, instead of constituting a heavy drain on the finances of the country, the C.N.R. will be revenue-producing and a source of financial strength to Canada.

But the general trend of the discussions at Ottawa do not appear to have that end in view. Rather there has been petty and carping criticism of minor details which should find no expression on the floors of Parliament and which it should be beneath the dignity of that body to even notice.

One of the best acts standing to the credit of the present Government was the securing of the services of Sir Henry Thornton as president of the Canadian National. He has thrown himself with abounding energy into the task of consolidating and making a really efficient system out of the separate railway units which were turned over to him. He has created a splendid esprit de corps among the large staff of employees, has built up the system in every respect, and today the C.N.R. is an effective and vigorous competitor of the C.P.R.

Yet Parliament demands the presence at Ottawa of a man of Sir Henry's standing and carrying such huge responsibilities to answer picayune criticisms regarding petty details of management which the Board of Directors of the C.P.R. would never think of expecting of President Beatty. The C.P.R. can spend a million or more in the construction of a hotel at Lake Louise in order to cater to and capture tourist traffic, and nobody objects but, on the contrary, applauds their enterprise. Likewise the C.P.R. is not criticized when it indulges in extensive advertising campaigns to get business. But Sir Henry Thornton and the C.N.R. are the targets of attack in Parliament because some money is expended to develop the attractions of the National Park at Jasper Park and because it, too, advertises extensively in order to develop and increase tourist traffic over C.N.R. lines. Even Sir Henry's private car and the room he occupies in a hotel are objects of attack.

Right at the outset when taking over the management of the Canadian National, Sir Henry Thornton voiced warning against party politics being allowed to interfere in the management of the road, and he has repeated that warning on several occasions since, pointing out in the plainest language possible that the C.N.R. can be made a success and an asset rather than a liability to the Dominion, but only if strict business principles are allowed to prevail in its direction and management and party politics are wholly eliminated.

Sir Henry Thornton is a big man and an outstandingly successful railway executive. He so proved himself in the United States, again in England, and still later during the war in France. Canada was fortunate in obtaining his services at a time when other big railway men thought the C.N.R. would prove the grave of any man's reputation. If Sir Henry is capable of handling his job, he should be left to do it and should be given the freest possible hand in working out and carrying his policies into effect.

Those members at Ottawa who are engaged in this guerrilla warfare against the present management of the C.N.R. are the real obstacles to the success of public ownership in Canada. Their criticisms are not in any sense constructive, but wholly destructive. They should be squelched.

Mrs. John A. Patterson, Scotch Village, N.S., says:—"There are six children in our home, and the only medicine they get is Baby's Own Tablets, and I have not known the Tablets to fail when a medicine was needed. No mother should be without the Tablets in the house." Like Mrs. Patterson thousands of other members are quick to praise Baby's Own Tablets for bringing health and comfort to their little ones. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels, thus banishing constipation and indigestion, colds and simple fevers, and making teething easy. They are guaranteed to contain no opiates and are perfectly safe for the youngest child. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

No Unemployment In France

Not Healthy Sign When It Means Decrease In Population

There is no unemployment in France. That seems a miracle to England, with its mass of unemployment. But the scarcity of labor which leads to that condition is not a healthy sign. It is, on the contrary, another reminder of that greatest danger of all to France—the decrease in population. France is not producing youth enough to do the work in factories and fields. Its birth rate is dropping so low that the figures are terrifying to patriotic Frenchmen.—Sir Philip Gibbs in the World's Work, New York.

Was First Woman Graduate of Alberta

Hamilton Girl Has Been Practising Law in Toronto

Miss Ethel Bertha Fagan, of Hamilton, Ont., has the honor of being the first woman to graduate from the University of Alberta.

Before going to Alberta to take her course, Miss Fagan was for ten years engaged in law work in Toronto. For two years of this time she was articled, and has a number of clients of her own. She found there were many women who preferred for different reasons to seek the advice of a woman in the matter of investment and she expects to work up this line of practice. However, Miss Hogan expects ultimately to go into social service work. This has been her goal for several years. Law training is said to be more helpful in this work.

GOVERNMENT TO HAVE MINISTER AT WASHINGTON

Ottawa.—The Canadian Government hopes to make the appointment of a Canadian minister to Washington very shortly. Premier King announced in the House of Commons, before the vote of $60,000 for Canadian representation in the United States was passed by the commons.

The prime minister said that the government had not found it easy to secure the person it wanted to represent Canada and referred to the necessary expenses which went with such a post.

Sir Henry Drayton, Conservative, South York, said it was an unnecessary duplication of the British ambassador's work at Washington, and asked if a like appointment for Paris was intended, or if not, why? The premier said the Paris office was satisfactory, but the late Sir James Bryce said Canada provided nine-tenths of the work of the British ambassador at Washington, including rum-running, waterways, and ever increasing trade.

T. A. Crerar, Progressive, Marquette, criticized the government for not having made the Washington appointment long ago.

J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg Centre, supported the proposal for a minister at Washington. He believed, however, that $60,000 was too much for this purpose. The vote was then carried.

Old Military Ceremonial Celebrated In London

"Trooping the Colors" on King's Birthday Reaffirms Allegiance

London.—King George celebrated his sixtieth birthday. The court came to London from Windsor for the occasion, which was marked by the customary congratulations from relatives, friends and foreign rulers and eulogistic articles in the newspapers.

The chief public celebration in London centred around the old military ceremonial, "Trooping the Colors," the annual parade and evolutions by the Brigade of Guards in St. James' Park.

The yearly military pageant of trooping the colors has no counterpart in any other army in the world, and it really constitutes a re-affirmation by the Brigade of Guards of their allegiance to the sovereign and their privilege of mounting guards in special places and on special occasions of particular ceremony.

At the trooping of the colors the mounted officers of the Grenadier Guards used the saddle presented by the great Duke of Wellington to the Guards and the Life Guards appeared with the kettle-drums given by William IV, and also with the bugle which sounded their charge in the battle of Waterloo.

The King's birthday honors list, made public, follows the line of "safety and respectability" which was definitely instituted a few years back.

Unemployment and Crime

Average Criminal of Today Belongs to the Younger Generation

Winnipeg.—Marked increase of crime among women and the younger generations of Winnipeg during the past year was indicated in the annual report of Chief Constable Newton.

The average criminal of today, the report states, is the boy of 17 to 18, at most 20 to 21 years of age. These youthful malefactors, the report declares, are "hardened criminals at heart," although just boys in years, boasting to their friends and parading themselves in an effort to show how close they can stick to their criminal associates.

Unemployment is blamed for much of the crime.

BRITAIN KEEPING CLOSE WATCH ON AFGHANISTAN

London.—As a result of alleged Soviet attempts in 1918 and 1919 to penetrate India, through the valuable northwestern frontier, the British Government has been especially watchful of Afghanistan affairs. It has also maintained a strong defence at the frontier ports, since German attempts to enter India from Afghanistan and the northwest during the war.

The British Government has a treaty with the Emir of Afghanistan, in which the Emir promises not to allow Soviet agitators to enter towns within certain distances from the Indian frontier.

It is pointed out in London that an Afghanistan rebellion, instigated by foreign influence, could readily become a religious war and that would menace the greater part of India's population.

British observers have reported there is little possibility of any direct attack being made by the rebels against the British forces, but it is considered likely that the Emir will have to abdicate unless he is able to gather his supporters immediately and inflict decisive defeat upon the rebels.

Failed To Cheer Former Crown Prince

Berlin Crowds Resented Preferential Treatment He Received

Berlin.—The former Crown Prince of Germany enjoyed a few minutes of his pre-war glory again when he appeared at Tempelboer field to witness the aeroplane competition in progress there.

American newspaper men, on approaching to interview the pilots, were curiously informed that foreigners were not desired to investigate Germany's aeronautics. The crowds, which came to the field encountered everywhere the outspoken words or signs that said "verboten."

The former Crown Prince's review had all the earmarks of one of his old-time official appearances except that the crowds failed to cheer him and seemed to resent the preferential treatment he received.

Alleged Red Plot In Balkans Bared

Movement Was to Spread to Other States

Berlin.—The Deutsche Zeitung claimed to have possession of a document, intended to be confidential, according to which M. Lewitzky, counsellor of the Soviet legation at Vienna, is to take advantage of his diplomatic immunity and direct Communist activity throughout the Balkans. The Deutsche Zeitung said the plan was to "Bolshevise" Bulgaria first and then to spread the movement to other Balkan states.

To Deal With Rum Ships

Claim Most of Rum-Runners Fly the British Flag

Boston.—A call for reinforcements to deal with the growing rum row off Cape Ann and Boston harbor, augmented by vessels driven from New York waters by the coastguard blockade, has been sent to Washington by the coastguard.

The line of the ships lying 22 miles off the coast has grown in recent days, first to eight and then to 12. Seven of the eight identified ships fly the British flag.

Act of Vandalism

Montreal.—The Montreal Star has offered a reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person who destroyed 17 new trees on the "Road of Remembrance" in Notre Dame de Grace. Large Crowd Greets Prince At Durban

Durban, South Africa.—One of the most enthusiastic of the many rousing receptions the Prince of Wales has had during his tour of South Africa was given him here.

On his way from Ladysmith, where he visited battlefields of the Boer War of 1899-1900, every way-side railroad station had cheering crowds. When he reached Durban, the streets were packed with people along the route he was to traverse. Formal welcoming ceremonies were conducted in the town hall square.

Canadian U.S. Trade Vital Factor To Both

Reciprocity May Become Burning Issue Says Washington Post

Washington.—In an editorial on Canadian trade, The Washington Post, which is close to the Coolidge administration, analyses figures given out recently by the Canadian minister of finance for the fiscal year ending March 31, and says trade between Canada and the United States is looming larger and larger as "a vital factor to the prosperity of both."

It says reciprocity may yet become a more burning issue than was dreamed of in 1912 and intimates it would be a good thing for both countries. While the balance of trade is still in favor of the United States it predicts this will decrease as Canadian population and production increase.

The Post sees in the development of the Western Canadian provinces an invaluable "safety valve" for domestic manufactures and industrial products of many kinds.

Unemployment In Ireland

Dublin.—The Irish Free State Parliament has voted £65,000 for agricultural and unemployment relief work.

CLAIM FOR U.S. LAND DISCOVERED IN THE NORTH

Provincetown, Mass.—Commander Donald B. Macmillan, when informed by The Associated Press of the report that Hon. Charles Stewart, Canadian minister of the interior, had told the House of Commons that Canada claims all lands north of the Dominion to the North Pole, said: "There is nothing new in that claim, although I have often wondered on what it was based."

"Any land which we discover on the expedition which is to start this month from Boston will certainly be claimed by us for the United States. We were told of Canada's claim when we left in 1913 on the Crocker Island expedition. We sailed for 150 miles across the Polar Sea and took from the maps land which had previously been shown on them, but we found none."

"This summer's expedition will seek land in a region lying partly north of the Dominion, but the greater part will be north of Alaska. If we find anything we shall claim it for the United States, and I think that the nations of the world will regard it as just."
